POP SINGER FOR YOUTH CLUB SHOW

A FORMER leader of an Ealing pop group, The Seventh Sun, will give a concert at All Saints Church Hall, Elm Grove, Ealing Common, on Saturday.

He is Peter E. Bennett who lives in West Twyford, and was also a member of another pop group, the Now. He has released a single record, "The Seagull's Name was Nelson," which is in the current charts.

He will appear at the concert, organised by All Saints Youth Club, with his backing group of session musicians.

The concert starts at 8 p.m.

Scouts raise £150

DURING the last two weeks, four Scout groups have raised a total of £150 from jumble sales.

The 26th Ealing troop raised £48 towards building an extension to the headquarters, the 25th Ealing £16 and 7th Hanwell £27 towards Group running costs and 9th Ealing raised £58 towards the purchase of new uniforms for the scouts.

Until now, 9th Ealing have continued to wear the old-style scout uniform of shorts and wide-awake hats but October is the dead-line for Troops to change over to the new uniforms decided on by the Chief Scout's Advance Party who reviewed the entire scout movement in 1966.

Leader says goodbye

FIFTH Hanwell Scouts will wave goodbye to their leader Mr. Bryan Wright at the end of October.

He is leaving his home at 10 Campbell Road to become ecome a full time warden at Chalfont Heights Scout Campsite and Activities Centre, near Gerrards Cross where he will live with his wife and family.

Mr. Wright, who has lived in Hanwell all his life, joined Hanwell Methodist Church in 1952 as a member of the youth club.

A few years later he was asked to help with the troop, and after National Service returned to become a leader.

He has also been a Sunday School teacher, Poor Steward, Society Steward and Trustee, and was married at the church.

Boys of Form 1V get going on old cars

FOURTH FORM boys at Stanhope Secondary School, Greenford, forget acadamic subjects for at least an hour a week and concentrate on something totally different — car mechanics.

Every Thursday afternoon, about a dozen boys pick up their tools and dismantle a car.

The course was introduced this term by one of the school's maths masters, Mr. David Herbert. He instructs the boys in the practical and theoretical sides of car mechanics, and lets them try out their knowledge on old machines he has acquired.

"I think it essential for boys of this age to know something about cars," said Mr. Herbert. "After all, most of them will probably want cars of their own one day, and I hope these lessons will be useful then."

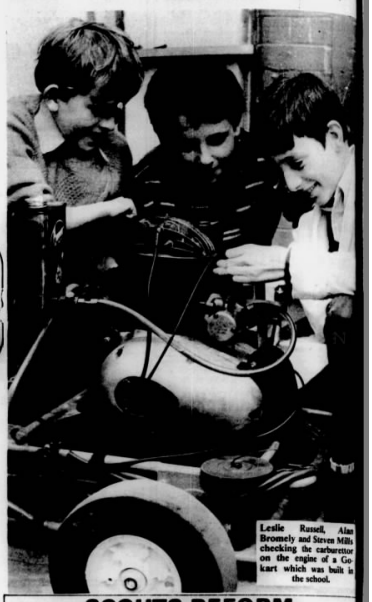

UNTRAINED

Mr. Herbert is not a trained mechanic, but he is genuinely interested in mechanics and reads wildely on the subject. "I tell the boys all I know about cars and try to get them to understand by actually working with parts," he says.

"What I would really like to do is establish a link between mechanics, technical drawing, physics and metalwork classes in the school. Then if something went wrong with part of a machine, we could all work together to repair it. But my mechanics class is only just starting, and any such co-operation will probably take time."

During the summer holidays, Mr. Herbert bought an old Renault Dauphine, which the boys have stripped down and are now working on.

They have also built an engine e for an old go-kart, and are making it roadworthy.

SCOUTS REFORM

THE 8th Hanwell (Saxons) Scout Troop have recently re-formed under the leadership of John Beney after a break of two years.

Twelve cubs were invested as Scouts at the end of their pack meeting last Thursday, and met again the following night for their first Troop meeting. Also present were a few older members of the previous troop.

As before they will meet at the Community Centre on Fridays at 8 p.m.

You'll feel more at home with Gas central heating

It has to be gas.

Why has gas central heating become more popular than all other systems? For obvious reasons. It is completely automatic, completely flexible, and simple to put in. Efficient and economical, too. As only a truly modern system can be.

Easy to run, easy on the pocket.

With gas there's no bulky storage or delivery problems. No fetching and carrying. No "dirty" work. No fuss. No mess. In fact no work involved at all. And by using gas you can help reduce air pollution as well.

What's more, gas won't burn a hole in your pocket. Because after your system's installed you'll almost certainly qualify for one of the low price tariffs. (Natural Gas users should ask about the Gold Star Tariff.) Which means not only a cheap rate for heating and hot water, but for cooking and gas refrigeration too!

'Tailor-made' Central Heating.

Homes and families differ in their heating requirements. So naturally you may want a slightly different central heating system to the folks' next door. This is where North Thames Gas offers a special advantage: 'tailor-made' heating to your own individual specifications. This will be carried out by the Board's own authorised and approved installers. The experts. Who will give you the very best advice, to ensure 'custom built' satisfaction, before and after installation!

A system of choice.

There are many warm hearted ways of starting gas central heating. In fact a system just right for your home and your budget. But to find out how flexible gas can be, why not send in the coupon and get the full story?

Evil spreading from the castle

ALL the things needed for a good horror film are in "The Vampire Lovers," showing this week at the ABC Ealing and the Granada Acton, it has men in black, seduction, mystery and of course, vampires.

Set deep in the heart of the province of Styria, Karnstein castle is the centre of an evil that spreads around the countryside. Even after their mortal deaths, the Karnsteins, the undead, rise from their tombs and suck blood from their victims during the night.

One of the victims is the sister of Baron Hartog, who, in revenge, seeks out the graves of the vampires and destroys them. Only one grave escapes the Baron's work, the grave of a young girl — Mircalla Karnstein.

Years of peace follow that grisly night, but then Mircalla reappears. She is introduced to local society by a beautiful countess as her daughter Marcilla.

NIGHTMARES

When the countess has to leave, her host, the General insists that Marcilla stay with him and his daughter Laura.

Gradually, Marcilla comes between Laura and her fiance, Carl Ebbhardt. She promises Laura love her forever, but Laura begins to have nightmares and she grows weaker and weaker.

A few days later Laura dies, drained of all her blood and Marcilla vanishes.

This is just the beginning of a trail of death left by the beautiful vampire.

To the woods!

IF YOU want a good laugh then take my advice and go along to Richmond Theatre and see their latest production, "Lady Audley's Secret (or the Dark Deed in the Wood)."

It stars Betty Marsden, Amanda Barrie and Robin Hunter with James Locker, Robert Peake, John Hollis and Gillian Hawser. The play is presented just as it would have been when it was first produced and shown in 1863.

Betty Marsden is really superb as Lady Audley and had the character summed up perfectly.

Amanda Barrie is wonderful as Phoebe Marks, Lady Audley's maid.

Robin Hunter is first class as Robert Audley, nephew to Sir Michael, he tried so hard and successfully to play it as it would have been played 100 years ago.

Written and sung by..

JONI MITCHELL, the Canadian singer who had a hit with "Big Yellow Taxi" and also wrote "Both Sides Now," leads off a new BBC-2 series called "In Concert," next Friday.

The whole series will be devoted to artists who write songs as well as perform them.

Says producer Stanley Dorfman: "In recent years folk music and pop have grown closer together, and a new breed of artist has emerged — the writer who sings his own work.

This series is an attempt to show what has been happening, and to show some of the wealth of song writing talent there is around.

Featured in the coming weeks will be Tom Paxton, The Pentangle, Alan Price, Bobbie Gentry, Tom Rush, White, John Sebastian, Tim Hardin, Crosby and Nash, James Taylor, Randy Newman, Elton John and Mac Davis.

Joni Mitchell is probably one of the outstanding examples of the composer-performer. She is a concert artist in her own right, and her songs are in the repertoire of nearly every current folk singer of note.
